has not taken a position on. They are in the last two and a half weeks in this legislation session, last day being August 25th, and the 31st for each House to pass the bill and January 1st 2023 unless an emergency clause. He noted that in the next couple weeks the Mayor's office and Council President will send out solicitations to department general managers requesting legislative proposals to be taken up, and they will review those in September and October; narrow down priorities and get support through Council. If any go into effect next year, for purposes of this Commission and NCs, and Brown Act bodies he knows, he knows there is a desire for further teleconferencing flexibility, which is something they are requesting from the Department and Commission here. Mr. Fingard clarified what the City not taking a position signifies is that there have been no resolutions to introduce any of these three bills to the City's legislative program, which he believes it is unlikely to happen within the short time left.
